Context

A group of academics in the field of Online/Distance learning will visit your University for a study visit. In one of the various events organised, you will discuss and exchange ideas about methods of online assessment. You have decided to collaborate with a group of colleagues and present some examples of online assessment to get feedback and recommendations for improvement.

Instructions

Work in groups and address the following questions:

- define at least 2 learning objectives for a hypothetical course/unit
- prepare 1 formative and 1 summative assessment activities used to measure i) whether the students progress properly and ii) whether the objectives have been met
- write a short description of what this activity is about and what the participants are asked to do, including a short explanation of the tech tools you would use
- are there any potential challenges that may arise? What measure will you take for these?
- explain the way students will get feedback
